yusra anees on her new "crib"

So tell us, what lead to the decision to move out of your parents room and transition to your own with a full size crib?

You know, since the day I was born I've been sleeping in the same room as my parents. It made it easy for nights where my bassinet wasn't cutting it to slip into their bed, maybe pull my moms hair a bit, give her a little massage with my feet. But I'm grown now, past 9 months, just felt like it was time to go out on my own, get a place for myself and my toys!

Oh? That's the full story?

Okay, okay, they had also started sleeping most nights in the guest room anyways and realized I was ready to move on out too, so maybe it wasn't entirely my decision...

Well, regardless we love what you've done, what inspired you?

Well I can't take all the credit, most of the work was done by my team and special thanks to the lead designer of this project, Mom! This really was her vision. I kind of gave her the vibe I wanted, playfull, wimsy, pastel with pops of color, and she really made it her own. So happy!

And how's the switch going? Settled in yet?

Look, I'll admit, I thought I was a big girl but the first week or two was a little scary for me. But things are better now and I'm having the best sleep I've had in months!

With all this new found space, what have you been doing to take advantage of it? Any new hobbies?

Nothing new necessarily, but I'm taking full advantage of the extra space and freedom. I'm playing around more, with my bigger chest I can store even more toys that I can practice taking in and out of containers. Also my book collection has grown quite a bit as well. Has given me a lot of time to really dig into my backlog which had grown. My parents like to sleep early and lights off so i could never stay up too late reading

I did notice your rather big collection, tell me whats on your current rotation? Any favorites?

I'm a huge fan of the classics, not to sound too basic haha. You know the ones, "The Very Hungry Caterpillar", "Brown Bear, Brown Bear, What Do You See?", and "Farm Animals" to name a few. Right now I'm just looking, chewing on the pages, and pointing out the pictures I like, but I'm hoping with some practice I'll be able to read some of the words too.

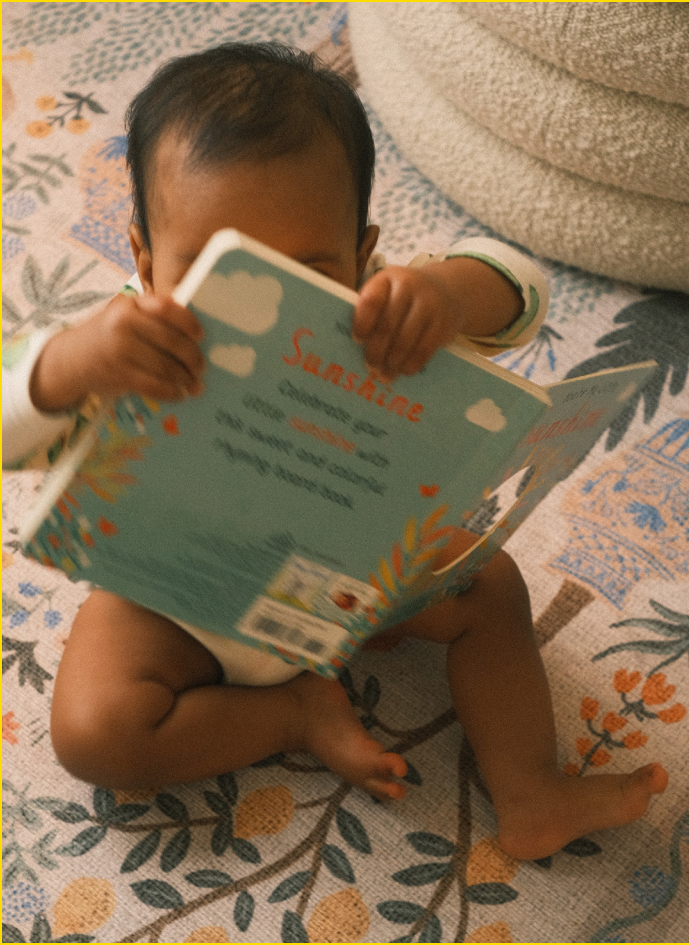

And the toy collection, what are the pieces you find yourself going back to?

I can't really stand (note: this interview took place before Yusra learned to walk later that year in Nov.) but i like my mini soccer ball, we actually picked it up during our summer trip to Italy. I also love the stuffed animals I have but it really depends on my mood that day, how the vibes are ya'know? If Mercury is in retrograde and stuff. Or if I'm having a tooth pop out or not. I'm a pretty day to day type of person so I don't really have a single favorite up here. I just like to live in the moment.

I have it on good authority that you're actually quite picky about your toys, among other things!

Who told you that? No comment, this interview is over it's almost my nap time anyways!

BUONGIORNO!

INSIGHTS FROM THE HOTTEST DESTINATION THIS SUMMER:
WHERE TO VISIT, WHERE TO STAY, WHAT TO DO AND EAT

A large Italian flag (green, white, and red vertical stripes) flies from a tall, ornate pole. The pole is topped with a golden eagle. In the background, a grand classical building with white columns and statues is visible. The sky is a clear, deep blue with a small crescent moon in the upper left. The overall scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.
